Where does the money go?

Dreamflight relies entirely on the generosity of its supporters. Although many suppliers of services offer Dreamflight generous discounts, the Charity still pays approximately $5,800 per child or in excess of $1 million each year for the complete trip. Here's how your donation could help towards providing the 'holiday of a lifetime' for a most deserving child:

$9	enables each child to receive a personalised DVD of their trip
$15	provides lunch and refreshments for a child during a day in one of the theme parks
$20	pays for a child's Dreamflight rucksack
$40	buys a child ice creams in all of the theme parks we visit during the trip
$45	pays for a child to spend a full day at a waterpark in Orlando
$65	gives a whole day of fun at Universal Studios for one child
$100	pays for a child to spend a full day at a Walt Disney World Park
$130	covers the cost of a room for two children in a fantastic London hotel, the night before the flight to Orlando
$230	buys a transit seat, used for transferring some children from their wheelchairs onto the aircraft or theme park rides
$370	covers the cost of a full day at Discovery Cove (including a swim with a dolphin) for two children
$580	funds a full day on Dreamflight for one child including the elements mentioned below
$5800	funds the full 'trip of a lifetime' for a child. The cost includes:

- Pre-trip get-togethers so the child can get to know their group and feel comfortable
- Travel to/from London from their home in the UK
- Welcome party in London, including food, entertainment and accommodation
- The privately-hired flight to/from Orlando
- Accommodation in Orlando for 8 nights
- Entry into the theme parks for the duration of the trip
- All meals and snacks, including ice-cream and drinks in the parks
- Any medical equipment or care needed on the trip
- Toys and gifts to take home
- Photos and a special DVD of the trip for each child
- A 'reunion' to see the film of their group's trip on the big screen in a cinema with their families

The Dreamflight trip also offers opportunities for corporate sponsorship, including

$325-450 sponsors a set of T-shirts for all the members of one group

(A large group of children and adults walking around the theme parks in highly visible, brightly coloured sponsored t-shirts is a sure way for your company to reach a wide audience!)

$2350 sponsors white Dreamflight t-shirts for departure and return for the whole group – giving an opportunity to include your company's branding

$3750 provides sponsorship for all the Dreamflight rucksacks and fanny packs which are used by Dreamflight children and adults in the parks each day

$7150 sponsorship of special hoodies the children wear in the hangar, on the flight and around the pool in Orlando (and kept as a memento of their trip)

$7150 pays for the cost of the equipment and facilities in the special Hangar at Heathrow airport (UK), allowing families to welcome their children back from their dream trip

$7800 covers the cost of the special welcome party in London for all the children the night before the trip

$16500 sponsors a day's entry to a Disney waterpark for the entire group – children and volunteer carers

$17000 sponsors a day's entry to Universal Studios for the entire group – children and volunteer carers

$26000 pays for the cost of all the return domestic flights and coach hire needed to bring all the children from across the UK to London to take part in the trip

$27500 sponsors a day's entry to Magic Kingdom or Hollywood Studios for the entire group – children and volunteer carers

$65000 pays for the 12 accessible coaches used each day in Orlando, for the whole trip

$92800 pays for all 16 children in one group to have their Dreamflight trip
